Connect with others from around the UCC at a meetup event in Atlanta!

We have the exciting opportunity on Friday, April 26th to connect across congregations with other UCC folks in the Atlanta area. Please join us in supporting this way of building relationships with others in the Conference. A letter from the organizers is below.

Are there other events and activities that would bring us together as a United Church? Let us know by replying to this email! You can also connect with us on Facebook or follow us on Twitter.

Blessings and peace,

The Southeast Conference

Are you thirsty for new connection? Are you hungering for new friendships with fellow UCCers? A grass-roots UCC movement is beginning to sprout that seeks to satisfy that hunger and thirst. This emerging movement is the UCC Still Speaking, Y'All QuarterlyMeet-Up!

Our goal is to create informal spaces of fun and friends to get to know each other better as the Atlanta-area UCC community outside of the church or worship setting. Relationship should be especially appealing for Young Adults who desire more community connections.

Our first Still Speaking, Y'All Quarterly Meet-Up is scheduled for April 26th with a tour of Sweetwater Brewery in Atlanta! We have a designated UCC space reserved next to the tap room to hang out during and between beer tastings, tours of the brewery, and meeting new friends! After the brewery Meet-Up at Sweetwater (starting at 5:20 PM), we'll continue to Las Margaritas on Cheshire Bridge Road at 7 PM. We have reservations for a large group starting at 7 PM, and we can stay and enjoy the company and food for as long as we like. We need people to reserve a place, as space is limited and we need to alert our hosts of our numbers, stay for both parts of the Meet-up, or just come for dinner.

We are looking to feed the hunger and quench the thirst for Relationship and Togetherness as UCC Christians in and outside of Church. We welcome you or anyone else from your church who might like to help us plan future quarterly Meet-Ups, we welcome and would love your help. Ideas or inspirations of any kind are always also welcome and encouraged.

To register for this event visit the eventbright page here.

Cheers and see you at Sweetwater!
